Modi's mission self-reliance: Make in India, lower import dependence

NEW DELHI: India will fire on all cylinders to achieve atmanirbharta (self-reliance) and could offer tax sops, procurement preference in government contracts for domestically produced goods while imposing stringent non-tariff barriers to discourage imports. Measures for sectors such as pharmaceuticals, furniture and leather are in focus and states could be asked to revamp their procurement processes to prefer local manufacturing.

View: India can not only soften the pandemic's impact on the economy but also revive growth

The government's stimulus package, at Rs 20 lakh crore, is large enough in size. But can it address not just immediate relief for the lockdown- and pandemic-stricken economy but also reversal of the slowdown that had preceded Covid-19? Why stop the frying if the plan is to dump it into the fire?

In Phase II of epidemic, states must build empirical and analytic foundations of systems of delivery

"We have to learn to live with the virus," said Lav Agarwal, joint secretary, Union health ministry, on May 8. Hopefully, this will turn out to be a watershed moment in India's fight with the corona epidemic. For, it marks the realisation that as the virus spreads across India, a centralised strategy of containment and elimination is no longer viable.
