Over to the states

Devolution of powers to states to micro-manage the pandemic is welcome. They will need to work with local bodies.

Over to the states

Devolution of powers to states to manage COVID pandemic is welcome. The guidelines for Lockdown 4, announced by the Union Ministry of Home Affairs on Sunday, continue a trend that began about two weeks ago. The ministry had allowed a range of economic activities in the non-COVID 19 hotspots during Lockdown 3.

education is online learning.

Rethinking India's tryst with e-learning

By Kavita Sahay Kerawalla Covid-19 has interrupted education of over a billion students worldwide. In such times, the optimum solution to sustain education is online learning. Schools are conducting classes online via Zoom, Moodle and proprietary school software. The sudden need for online education has created an opportunity to experience how online learning can improve the educational landscape and policies in India.

Is day care safe during the coronavirus pandemic? It depends. Here are some guidelines.

Child care during the coronavirus pandemic can best be described as clinical. Temperature checks, hand-washing and face masks are constants now at preschools and child care centers around the country. Class sizes have limits, and some lunchrooms and common areas are off limits. The safety measures pose a constant reminder to families: These are not normal times.

The corona crisis has highlighted the criticality of social infrastructure. India must monetise existing assets in the public sector to fund growth-enhancing investments in physical and social infrastructure.

Covid lessons for economy

A raging debate is underway in India - and indeed in other emerging markets - about what the appropriate fiscal response to COVID-19 should be.

Monetary policy has moved swiftly and aggressively in many economies but questions remain on its incremental efficacy.
